MANINGRIDA FOOTY FESTIVAL

The Sydney Swans will host a football festival in the Top End this November with the aim of delivering an important health message about smoking.

First Nations peoples in the Northern Territory have among the highest rates of smoking in Australia, especially across the Jabiru – Tiwi region in West Arnhem Land, where the town of Maningrida is located. Maningrida is one of the most culturally diverse Aboriginal communities in Australia, with around 15 different languages spoken among the population.

The Sydney Swans first visited Maningrida two years ago in partnership with the Mala'la Aboriginal Health Service.

Through an extension of that collaboration, a contingent of Swans AFL and AFLW players and staff will return to Maningrida to host a football festival, encouraging the community to Kick the Habit as part of the Australian Government's Tackling Indigenous Smoking (TIS) program.

The TIS program supports healthy lifestyles through the promotion of smoke free environments and discouraging the uptake of smoking and tobacco products.

On the field, the three-day Maningrida Footy Festival from November 15-17 will see men's, women's and youth teams compete in a round robin format, while off the field, participants will engage in TIS workshops, health checks and other health activities.

Sydney Swans Indigenous Strategy Manager Jarred Hodges said the project aims to use role models and community engagement to impact meaningful change.

"Our aim is to use the power of sport to bring the community together to increase the exposure of First Nations young people and families to vital preventative smoke-free messaging," Hodges said.

"We were fortunate to establish some strong relationships when we visited Maningrida two years ago and our staff and players learned so much from the experience, so this is our opportunity to give back.

"Importantly, this is not a one-off event, as we will deliver the Maningrida Footy Festival and the Kick the Habit campaign each year for at least the next three years. Our goal is to engage 500 participants and 1000 spectators by year three, and hopefully have a really positive impact on health outcomes in the community."

CREATING A FUN, EDUCATIONAL SPACE

The crèche at Minjilang is open and West Arnhem Regional Council is very excited as it evolves into an educational, fun, safe and nurturing space for the little people of Minjilang to enjoy. The crèche now has three part time staff employed and the Childcare Senior officer.

Childcare Senior Officer Jodie Lannoy said, "creating an inclusive, welcoming and at times a little crazy work environment for us all to enjoy is really important and I think we have achieved this as well."

"We have been fluctuating between 2-6 children per day and we are very optimistic that we will continue to grow but also very realistic that this will take time."

Days at the creche are full of music, outdoor play, reading books, cooking, doing puzzles, craft, painting, unstructured play time and group activities. They provide a nutritionally balanced menu for the children that changes on a weekly basis and it has been lovely to watch as the children explore and enjoy new foods.

The Minjilang crèche reopened in June following extensive roof and interior repairs. The crèche is an important part of the Minjilang Community which supports local families.

APPLICATIONS NOW OPEN FOR ABORIGINAL TOURISM GRANT PROGRAM

A new round of the Aboriginal Tourism Grant Program has opened to support NT-based majority-owned Aboriginal businesses and organisations.

It will enable them to develop their product and experiences to encourage visitors to travel and stay in the Territory for longer.

Minister for Tourism and Hospitality, Marie-Clare Boothby, said the Territory's tourism industry was a huge economic contributor, keeping Territorians in jobs and creating work opportunities for small to medium businesses.

"We are working hard to rebuild the economy, and we know that tourism is one of the Territory's biggest economic contributors," Ms Boothby said.

"Investing in Aboriginal tourism through grant programs enables local operators to develop cultural products that will attract more visitors and help our tourism businesses thrive.

"The Aboriginal Tourism Grant program will ultimately see more cultural tourism experiences available to visitors and importantly deliver positive economic and social outcomes for Aboriginal communities."

Aboriginal tourism injects about $383 million into the NT economy annually, with many domestic and international visitors seeking authentic Aboriginal cultural tourism experiences.

To date, the program has supported 60 Aboriginal businesses with grants totalling over $2.97 million.

The Round 8 of the Aboriginal Tourism Grant Program funding pool consists of $1 million.

A minimum of $30,000 up to a maximum $100,000 is available to eligible applicants.

Applications can be made via grantsnt.nt.gov.au

Applications close on Friday 7 March 2025, or earlier, if funding for the program is fully subscribed.

For further information, contact Tourism NT's Aboriginal Tourism team at Aboriginal.tourismnt@nt.gov.au or telephone 08 8999 7420.

24 HOUR WASH-A-THON IN GUNBALANYA

The Aboriginal Investment Group (AIG), in partnership with the Adjumarllarl Aboriginal Corporation, will be hosting a 24-hour wash-a-thon at the new Remote Laundry in the West Arnhem community of Gunbalanya. The Wash-A-Thon will be a festival of health and wellbeing, with a full program including:

- Sports festival: Basketball & AFL (Cyril Rioli is stopping by) and Colour Fun Run
- 24-hour BBQ: Meat supplied by Gunbalanya Meats (local Indigenous-owned abattoir)
- Free haircuts; The 'Look Good - Feel Good' program
- 'Healthy Skin/Healthy Heart' workshops (Heart Foundation)
- Cooking sessions (Healthy Eating Program), led by our dietician

As part of the festival, mattresses and linen will be provided to houses where it has been identified that children don't have a bed to sleep on. Set inside a 20-foot shipping container, the easy-to-operate laundry launched in late August in the community.

With four industrial-sized washers and dryers, the Remote Laundry provides a free laundry service to the Gunbalanya community while creating employment opportunities for locals.

Since opening, the laundry has spun over 300 cycles and employs five locals. Aboriginal Investment Group CEO, Liz Morgan-Brett says the project's success has been phenomenal. "The beauty of AIG's Remote Laundries Project is in its simplicity.

First wash at the new laundry in Gunbalanya.

The laundry provides free washing and drying for the community to reduce the prevalence of scabies and other skin infections and improve health and wellbeing," Ms Morgan-Brett said. "During the wash-a-thon, the Remote Laundry will run for the full 24 hours, and we're keen to see how many loads of washing we can get through in that time. If this pilot program goes well, we'll roll it out across our other Remote Laundries locations." AIG now operates five laundries in the NT:

"The Remote Laundry will run for the full 24 hours, and we're keen to see how many loads of washing we can get through in that time.."

Darwin, Milyakburra, Angurugu, Barunga and Gunbalanya, with Borroloola, Nauiyu and Umbakumba next in line. The Remote Laundries Project is supported by NT PHN, National Heart Foundation of Australia, Flinders University, Solar Living Homes, Katherine Laundry and Gremlin Electronics.

AUTRALIA DAY NT REGIONAL CONFERENCE

The annual Australia Day NT Conference held on Friday, 18 October proved to be more than just a gathering of community leaders—it was a masterclass in how local innovation can transform communities.

Amongst the attendees were Indigenous Elders, Council employees, artists, and entrepreneurs, all bringing their unique perspectives on building stronger Territory communities.

Representing West Arnhem Regional Council were Grants Coordinator Bryony Stracey and Manager Business Development Leanne Johansson.

This year's conference cut through the usual formalities to focus on what matters: real solutions to real challenges. From grassroots safety initiatives to digital innovation, from arts festivals to youth employment, each session revealed practical ways that Territory communities are evolving while honouring their cultural foundations.

The day's conversations centred on three key themes: cultural preservation in a digital age, community-led solutions to local challenges, and making programs truly accessible to all.

The annual Australia Day NT Conference was held in Darwin on Friday, 18 October.

There were some exciting presenters on the agenda including:

- Mark Smith from Music NT
- Jo Nixon from the The Beanie Festival in Alice Springs
- Dante St James shared insights about storytelling through social media
- Inclusion NT revealed how true inclusion transforms communities

- Youthworx NT
- Samantha McCue from The Clear Writing Coach
- Youth Rising
- Peter Susanto, the 2024 NT Young Australian of the Year

West Arnhem Regional Council wishes to thank the Australia Day Council NT for holding this annual regional conference.
